R.I.C. Theater Group Performances Slated Thursday and Friday

"A comedy of Eros or Contrasts in Courtship" is this year's final production of the Rhode Island College Theater. Performances will be given Thursday, May 7, and Friday May 8 in Roberts Hall Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Each student may receive one free ticket by presenting his identification card at the Roberts Hall box office. The general admission is $1.00.

The box office will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. today, tomorrow, Thursday and Friday (May 5, 6, 7, and 8.) The box office will also be open from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, May 6. In addition, Tickets will be available on the night of performances.

Dr. Munzer Appointed Director of Center

Dr. J. Howard Munzer, associate professor of education in the graduate division of Rhode Island College, has been appointed director of the College's Curriculum Resources center to take the position previously occupied by Dr. Sidney P. Rollins, recently appointed director of graduate studies.

The Curriculum Center is a collection of more than 8,000 pieces of material including sample textbooks, curriculum guides, and books and pamphlets on education.

Established in 1959 and now housed in the James P. Adams Library, the Curriculum Center lends items to teachers throughout the state.

Dr. Munzer was appointed to the RIC faculty in 1962 and was formerly a public school principal in Wayne, Michigan. He will continue teaching in the graduate division along with assuming the duties of his new position.

Convocation To Commence Senior Activities; Admiral William C. Mott To Address Seniors

Rear Admiral William C. Mott will address the senior class of Rhode Island College at the Cap and Gown Convocation today at 1 p.m. in Roberts Hall auditorium. At this time, President William C. Gaige will confer an Honorary degree of doctor of laws on Admiral Mott.

The convocation "marks the formal opening of the commencement season for the senior class, and is the first occasion its members wear their caps and gowns." Seniors will be capped at the formal ceremonies by President Gaige.

A graduate of Cranston High School, Admiral Mott was a Rhode Island appointee to the United States Naval Academy of Annapolis. After receiving his commission, he attended law school at George Washington University. He holds an honorary degree of doctor of laws from the John Marshall Law School. Admiral Mott is also a graduate of the Naval War College at Newport.

During World War II, he served as assistant naval aide to President Franklin Roosevelt. Later serving on the command staffs in combat in the Pacific theatre of the War, he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

Serving as liaison officer between the Department of State and the United Nations after the war, Admiral Mott later became Commander of the Naval School of Justice at Newport. In 1960, he was commissioned a rear admiral and named Judge Advocate General of the Navy.

Having retired from the Navy, April 1 of this year, Admiral Mott became executive vice-president of the United States Independent Telephone Association, May 1. He is also a fellow of the American Bar Found-attended John Carroll University and Transferring to Ohio Northern University, graduated with a bachelor of laws degree in 1936.

During World War II, he served in the U.S. Navy. In 1950 and 1952, he was elected to the Ohio State senate. In 1953 he became mayor of Cleveland and held that position for five consecutive terms. He was appointed secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in 1962.

Often defined as the "Department of Headaches," the position of Mr. Celebreeze was described by him. "The job is not quite impossible. No task is impossible. This is difficult and challenging. The responsibilities are great. But I'm not overwhelmed. Basically, I think, in varying degrees, you have the same problems as the mayor of a big city."

I wouldn't have you think the man in this chair can know and do everything. You must assemble all your information by talking to your commissioners and by reading. You find out where the weak spots are and send out directions that the laxity must be taken care of."

'Anchor' Awarded Certificate In College Newspaper Judgings, Another in Safe Driving Contest

The ANCHOR, last week, was awarded a second place certificate by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, Columbia University, in the association's fortieth annual judging of college newspapers. This marks the highest award the ANCHOR has received to date. Last year, the ANCHOR was awarded a third place certificate by the association.

According to the C. S. P. A., publications are classified according to a combination of three elements, i.e., the method of reproduction, the type of publication, and the type of school. This establishes the status of the entry with respect to others in the contest so that each is compared with others of a similar nature. The ANCHOR was classified in Plan A, College-University division.

Judging is accomplished by a board of judges at Columbia University who base their scoring on a possible high of 1,000 points. The ANCHOR received 788 points.

In judging the publications, four main categories are taken into consideration i.e. content, writing and editing, make-up, and general considerations.

Under content, emphasis is placed upon the scope of coverage and the timeliness of news appropriately treated. The ANCHOR received 231 of a possible 300 points in this area.

The writing and editing category covered such areas as English used, language and style. Specific fields such as news, sports, and feature stories were considered along with editorial matter. Grading was also done on objectivity, headlines, copy-reading and editing and proof-reading. The judges awarded the ANCHOR 304 of a possible 400 points in this area.

Make-up, the third category, covered such considerations as general appearance of each page, headlines, topography, arrangements, copywriting and layout, styles followed, and arrangements of advertisements. The ANCHOR received 178 of a possible 200 points in this area.

In the fourth category, general considerations, the newspaper is reviewed as a whole. According to the C.S.P.A., the factors that give the publication character, individuality, and value to the school are taken into consideration. Evidence is noted of seriousness of purpose, school pride, vision and achievement, as contrasted with mediocrity and perfunctory treatment of objectives and material. In this area the judges gave the ANCHOR 75 of a possible 100 points.

Second Award

As a result of an editorial printed in a November issue, the ANCHOR three weeks ago, received a certificate of editorial excellence in a nation-wide college newspaper contest on safe driving. Monetary winners in the contest consisted of institutions such as Texas A & M, University of Southern California, Brigham Young University, Dartmouth College, Indiana State College, Xavier University and San Diego State College.

In commenting on the results of the contest, Mr. W. B. Robertson, public relations director reported "the judging was close with but a few points separating the entrants. In view of the closeness of the results and your fine efforts to reduce traffic accidents among your student body, we are pleased to award you the certificate of editorial excellence."

SENIOR CHAPEL

Thursday of this week, at Senior Chapel, seniors Bill Waters and Paulette Dufrense will speak to the members of their class on "Challenge of Today and Tomorrow." During the program, Shirley Johnson chairman of the Chalktones, will play a musical selection on the organ. Virginia Lanni, will conduct the class in singing the Alma Mater.

Sunday, May 31, a Jewish theologian from Boston University will speak to the seniors at Baccalaureate Exercises.

COMMENCEMENT

Mr. Anthony J. Celebreeze, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will address the seniors at Commencement, Saturday, June 6.

Mr. Celebreeze, the son of Italian immigrants, was raised in Cleveland, Ohio. There he

Student Senate Election Termed "Null and Void"

Senate elections last week were declared "null and void." In making a committee report to the student senate at last Wednesday's regular meeting, Fran Syner, elections committee chairman revealed a discrepancy between the checking lists and the actual ballots on hand. A difference of approximately thirty votes became evident.

In elaborating, Miss Syner reported that the committee found votes cast for students officially declared withdrawn from the college. As a result, ballots were not tallied for individual candidates and the election was termed "null and void."

Miss Syner then requested Senate to extend the deadline for elections from May 1, to May 6. The request was granted allowing new elections to be held May 4, 5, and 6. Results of the new election should be known late Wednesday evening.

In the new election, the ballot box will not be in the corridor of the student center. Senators will conduct the election from the desk in the newly-opened wing of the student center. Identification cards will be carefully checked during the elections which are taking place today from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Architectural Barriers Deter Education For Handicapped

By ROSE MARY PIRROGLIA and TED ROSS

If one intelligent student is deterred from entrance into Rhode Island College because he or she would not be able to climb the stairs into Adams Library, or climb down and then up again into Clarke Science Building, a problem has arisen for every member of the College community. Education is not, and certainly should not be, earmarked for only the able-bodied. But in many cases it is, in effect.

A new classroom building will be completed next year on this campus. At present, no plans have been made for entrance ramps, wider doors with flush thresholds, elevators, or any other concessions to the needs of the handicapped student. A Faculty Committee, meeting to discuss the planning of the new classroom building, spoke about the possibility of certain modifications in the new building that might be of benefit to the student who is confined to a wheelchair, or who would have difficulty climbing stairs. The committee felt such modifications were not absolutely necessary. Perhaps they were not absolutely necessary, but neither were a succession of steps and terraces in the new Science Building.

As Leon Chatelaine, Jr., past president of the American Institute of Architects noted in a speech delivered at the opening General Session of the annual convention of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, "... an unnecessarily large portion of our permanently physically handicapped have been institutionalized or are confined to their homes, protected and pampered by solicitous parents, relatives, and friends, or hidden from view by ashamed families.

Many of the disabled are afraid to venture forth because of the architectural barriers they encounter—barriers that have unwittingly been built into the very buildings that should be most accessible. Some of these handicapped people have convinced themselves that it is better to stay home because they feel they are a burden to others in normal social settings. They may be a burden, but frequently it is not their fault. It is the lack of awareness of the general public which has created this difficulty."

For members of a College planning committee to dispose of a plan for including an elimination of architectural barriers to a handicapped student by dismissing it as "not absolutely necessary" appears especially reprehensible.

Specifications suggested by the American Standards Association for buildings under construction or in the planning stages include:

Grading and landscaping so that at least one entrance to a new building is at ground level. Entrances should be negotiable by those in wheelchairs; thus a ramp or, as suggested previously, a flush threshold, should be provided for.

Stairs should have rises of no more than seven inches, and round "nosings" so that they may be climbed easily by those in braces.

Doors should be at least thirty-two inches wide. Double doors are generally too difficult to open from wheelchairs.

The American Standards Association makes available to anyone interested, its specifications for making buildings and facilities accessible to the physically handicapped. Perhaps the Rhode Island College planning committee forgot to request its copy.

A Fine Arts Review

By Miss Rita Bicho

Gold and Fisdale duo-pianists gave the concert of the Rhode Island College Fine Art Series last Thursday evening, April 27th.

The art of duo-piano is very specialized and performers must develop exact tone quality plus exact interpretation. None can rival Gold and Fisdale as they have these qualities plus a uniqueness for phrasing and communicate as one artist.

Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach, arranged by Hess was beautifully expressed in delicate tone and style.

Taken from the limited standard repertoire, as duo-piano concert hall performing is a 20th century phenomenon, was the Mozart Sonata in C Major. The blending was superb, plus the clarity of tone resulted in a poetic rendition.

In 1953 Poulenc composed a Sonata for Two Pianos consisting of four movements which was dedicated to the pianists: Prologue, Allegro molto, Andante lirico and Epilogue. In the first movement, the theme is prominent and passages are loud, dissonant but held together by the sound of cathedral bells. The melody is transferred to a waltz tempo and returns to the theme. The second movement is quiet and the third movement is the heart of the sonata and filled with beautiful new melodies. The fourth movement starts off gay and lively but returns to the quiet waltz tempo and finally the return of the cathedral bells.

Gold and Fisdale understand the writings of this French composer who expresses wit, charm and depth with such finesse.

The Variations in B flat major, op. 82 by Schubert were dance-like and very delightful. The Scaramouche Suite by Milhaud was excellently performed by these great artists. Tempo, clarity was the best I have ever heard.

A rare treat was added to the program by Gold and Fisdale with the rendition of four encores: Hungarian Dance in D Minor by Brahms; Poulenc's Waltz which was dedicated to the pianists; Bach's Sicilienne and finally the humorous composition by an American composer, Virgil Thomson "Walking Home."

It was an excellent concert performed by two great artists who think and interpret as One.

Prof. Ettler is to be congratulated for bringing us such excellent artists to Rhode Island College as part of the Fine Art Series.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"SEE HERE COACH PHILLIPS - AM I TO HAVE TROUBLE WITH SOME MEMBER OF YOUR JAVELIN TEAM AGAIN THIS SEASON?"

From The Senate

Business transacted at the Wednesday night meeting of Student Senate included the changing of the deadline for election of student government officers for 1964-1965 to the early part of this week. All ballots cast last week were declared null and void.

Finance Committee

Carol Binda, treasurer of student senate, presented a series of general financial policies to supplement or revise the present policies. The finance committee approved the use of $800 by the Rhode Island College Theatre for a third production this year and requested senate approval. By a majority vote, senate approved the request.

Constitutional Revisions

Mike Barboza, '67, constitutional revision committee chairman, presented a series of revisions for approval by the senate. All revisions were approved by the senators and will be presented to the student body for approval. A 2/3 vote of the general assembly is needed for ratification of the constitution.

Faculty Advisor

During the report by the revision committee five male members of the student body entered the senate meeting room. One of the men approached Tom Izzo, president of student senate, and requested that he declare the meeting out of order because no faculty member was present to act as advisor. College regulations stipulate that a faculty advisor must be in attendance at all meetings of clubs or organizations. Tom asked the men not to press their request as much business was to be covered and much had been transacted. The students agreed not to demand that the meeting be called out of order.

Kennedy Dinner

Josh Healey was recognized by student senate to speak concerning the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund Drive. A dinner on the Rhode Island College campus was proposed in order to promote the drive. Josh asked permission to use the name of the Rhode Island College student government as sponsor of the dinner, without financial obligation. After a discussion, a motion was passed to have senate in conjunction with the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund Drive sponsor a banquet to be held at Rhodes.

Steve Solomon, '65, moved that senate match the student contribution to the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund Drive up to $500. The motion was passed.

'Helicon' Nearly Ready For Distribution

Copies of the second edition for this year of the Helicon, the student literary magazine of Rhode Island College, will be distributed May 12, Tuesday, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Art McKenna, '64, editor of the magazine this year also announced that juniors doing their student teaching this semester can claim their copies of the magazine Wednesday, May 13, and Monday, May 18, in the student center.

Newly-Formed Eastern Orthodox Club Meets

The newly-formed Eastern Orthodox Club will hold its first organizational meeting on Thursday, May 7, in Conference Room One at Adams Library at 7 p.m. Before the meeting, members of the group will have dinner together in the Donovan Dining Center. According to the club's adviser and guiding light, Mr. Ara E. Dostourian, the primary goals of the Eastern Orthodox Club will be to learn more about Orthodox Christianity and the application of its ideals to everyday life, and to achieve a feeling of fellowship. This latter point, Mr. Dostourian feels, is especially important at a time when members of the various Orthodox churches keep to themselves much of the time. The group is off to a good start in that particular direction, already including members from the Greek Orthodox, Armenian Orthodox, and Syrian Orthodox churches.

A "core" group of seven students has already held two informal meetings. They are Lewis Bellas, Elizabeth Skally, Anne Albert, Mary Corey, Carol Haddad, Margaret Pjojan, and Veronica Garvey.

At the first formal meeting, Mr. Dostourian said, the group will set up by-laws, and will begin planning for next year's religious, educational, and social program. Although it is too late to start anything this year, he noted, the groundwork must be laid before the start of the 1964-65 school year.

Included in the Club's first plans will be arrangements to have lay and clergy Orthodox speakers visit the campus to address the members.

Mr. Dostourian, who had at one time planned to become an Armenian Orthodox priest and did, in fact, study at Eastern Theological Seminary for three years, said, "I feel that it is about time for Orthodoxy to make use of its ancient tradition, and to become dynamic again."

RENEWAL OF RHODE ISLAND STATE SCHOLARSHIPS

All students who are presently on Rhode Island State Scholarships should go to the Office of the Dean of Students to pick up the material which must be completed by May 15. This information is very important in determining whether or not the student will receive consideration for renewal of financial aid. Cooperation is asked in picking up the material immediately so that it is returned by the deadline of May 15.

COLLEGE REGULATION REGARDING ABSENCE FROM FINAL EXAMINATIONS

Students are asked to acquaint themselves with the College regulation concerning absence from final examinations. No students shall be excused from final examinations.

In cases of extreme emergency arriving during the examination period the student shall notify the Registrar. The appropriate instructor will be notified of the absence and upon consultation with the Division Chairman shall determine what action is to be taken. A makeup examination will be scheduled only after the date for which the examination had been scheduled. Any student who wishes to appeal prior to examinations must submit a written statement to the Office of the Dean of Students.

Students are reminded that only in very extenuating circumstances will an absence from examination be considered. Please note that this request must first go to the Office of the Dean of Students.

COLLEGE SOCIAL CALENDAR

The College Social Calendar is being drawn up for 1964-1965. If there are any dates you would like to see included, please contact Miss Suzanne Haines or Richard Liscio. We are trying to make next year's calendar as complete as possible, therefore, we urge you to include regular meeting dates, bridges, lectures, special events. Department and division chairmen might wish to include their regular meetings.

MAJOR ACTIVITIES ON CAMPUS

Saturday, May 9: Rhode Island College will be host to the New England Debate Tournament, to be held in various parts of the campus throughout the day.

May 8-9: To honor the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare, the Rhode Island College Theatre will present a series of six scenes entitled "The Comedy of Eros, or Contrasts in Courtship" on May 8 and 9, in Roberts Hall. The purpose of the theatrical program is to depict the differences and similarities in the writing and acting of courtship or love scenes by Shakespeare and by contemporary playwrights.

Art Instructor Receives Grant

Peter L. Koenig, an instructor of art at Rhode Island College, has been awarded a full grant by the MacDowell Foundation for residence this summer at its colony for artists, writers, and composers in Peterborough, N.H.

The foundation seeks to foster creative endeavors by artists by supporting them while they work in secluded cabins at the New Hampshire colony. Mr. Koenig plans to spend most of August and September at Peterborough.

A graduate of the Massachusetts College of Art, Mr. Koenig earned his master's degree from Cranbrook Academy of Art and was appointed to the RIC faculty in 1963. He has been granted awards by the Birmingham, Michigan, Art Festival, the Cape Cod Art Association, the Provincetown Workshop, the Michigan State Fair, and the University of North Dakota and has had a number of exhibitions, including ones in the United States Senate Chambers, the Pennsylvania Museum of Art, the Worcester Art Museum, the Butler Institute of American Art, and the Detroit Institute of Art.

Guest Musicians To Perform At College

Music for the flute, cello, viola, and guitar will be presented on Tuesday, May 12, at 1 p.m. in the Little Theatre at Rhode Island College in the college music department's series of chamber music recitals.

Performing on the flute, cello, and viola respectively will be Betty Adae, Janet Chappel, and Siglind Cramm, all members of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra, and Thomas Greene, a music instructor in the Warwick schools, on the guitar.

The program: Trio Sonate (flute, guitar, cello), A. Lotti (1667-1740), Adagio, Allegro; Quartet, W. Matiegka (1773-1830), (arr. 1815 by F. Schubert), Moderato, Minuetto, Lento e pathetico, Zingara, Thema con variazione.

Student Counselors Receive Appointment

Notifications of appointment to the student counselor program 1964-65 were distributed last week to 67 students at Rhode Island College. Of the 67 appointments, 47 will be serving for a first time and 20 students will be counseling for the second year. The students were selected by Miss Donna Lee McCabe, College counselor, and a committee of student counselors, on the basis of outstanding interests and abilities to serve in advisory capacities to incoming students.

In the new program, which is replacing the junior brother-sister program, a student who will do his student teaching in the first semester will be the team-mate of one who is student teaching second semester. This will insure each freshman group and advisor a student counselor on campus to work with them throughout the year.

The aim of the student counselor program is to orient the incoming freshmen to all aspects of college life. The program is open to qualified sophomores and juniors.

Se I Schools To Compete On Campus

Debating teams from 23 public and parochial high schools in southern New England, will take part in the Invitational Debate Tournament of Rhode Island College in Providence on Saturday, May 9.

The tournament is being coordinated by Brother Julius, S.C., of Sacred Heart Academy, tournament director, and Mr.

Philip Joyce of the RIC speech department.

MUSICIANS NOTICE

Students who would like to participate in the 1964-65 Music Recital Series are advised to contact Dr. Abraham Schwadron in Room 119, Roberts Hall, before the end of this semester.

The series is sponsored by the College music department.

Baseball Team Plays In N.A.I.A. Tournament

Rhode Island College's baseball team, retaining a 4 win-1 loss record, was recently invited to compete in its district playoffs in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball championship tournament.

The Anchormen lost the initial game of the tournament to New Haven College, 5-3, last Saturday. Rhode Island batters out-hit their opponents 10 hits to five, but New Haven capitalized on walks and errors to secure the victory.

Ron Razza, called in for relief duty in the first inning, pitched nine full innings without giving up an earned run. The Anchormen failed to support Razza, however, and left 13 runners on base.

Carlo Izzo, veteran first baseman, collected four hits in as many times at the plate and led the Anchormen in that department. Leo Dextradeur smashed three hits for R.I.C.

Rhode Island College's baseball squad won its fourth contest in the New England State College Athletic Conference last week by defeating Westfield State College, 19-8, in a game played at Cronin Field.

Jim Healey captured his fourth win of the season as he went the entire distance on the mound for R.I.C. Healey allowed 10 hits, walked five and struck out four. Only two of the eight runs scored against him were earned as his mates made four errors in the field. In fact, these two runs are the only earned runs which Healey has given up in four games.

The Anchormen combed three Westfield hurlers for 11 hits. Ron Razza had three of these hits and drove in five runs, including three on a homer in the fifth inning. Carlo Izzo, Ed Roche and Jim Healey each collected two hits for R.I.C. Captain Tony Nardi and Mike Pitocchi scored two runs each for the Anchormen.

How I learned to stop worrying and love parties

Worrying about the high cost of living on campus? Looking for a way to earn extra money? Here's an idea. How 'bout becoming a part-time Tupperware dealer? These wonderful plastic food containers are demonstrated and sold only at home parties. Well, if you do the selling in your spare time you could earn $50 a week or more. And have lots of fun in the bargain! Interested? Ask your campus Financial Aid Director about it and call your local Tupperware distributor, listed in the Yellow Pages under Plastics or Housewares. Or send in this coupon...

R. I. C. Track Squad Wins Two Consecutive Meets

Rhode Island College's track team, aiming for its first championship in the New England State College Athletic Conference, scored two consecutive victories in triangular meets last week.

The Anchormen totaled 67 1/2 points in defeating Fitchburg State with 59 points and Bridgewater State with 32 1/2 points. Rhode Island College raced out to an early lead and turned back several Fitchburg threats to secure the victory.

Jack Wheeler led the R.I.C. trackmen, placing in five events and scoring 14 points. He won the high jump, took second in the two mile run and third in the high hurdles, low hurdles and broad jump. Other winners for Rhode Island College were Wayne Browning in the mile, Ted Squier in the low hurdles, Walter Hayman in the shot put and Arthur Schultz in the discus. Squier and Browning along with Rick Mancuso, Gene Wills and Don Vanasse each scored in three events for the Anchormen. Schultz and Hayman scored in two events each.

This was the first track victory for the Anchormen since the sport was initiated at the College in 1961. Rhode Island College's track team had often come close to winning meets in the past, but a lack of depth in many events had proved to be too much of a barrier. The Anchormen still lack strength in many events, but track coach Edward Bogda has overcome this problem to a small degree by placing some of his athletes in as many as five or six events. This strategy is working up to now and the R.I.C. trackmen have won two consecutive meets.

The summary

120 high hurdles—Dow, F. Squier, R.I.C.; Wheeler, R.I.C.; Stewart, B. 16.2.
100—Browning, R.I.C.; Berthoume, F.; Rutledge, F.; Brayton, F. 4:56.8.
440—LeClair, F.; Mancuso, R.I.C.; Boyal, R.I.C.; Burwood, B. 53.9.
100—Messina, F.; O'Connor, B.; Wills, R.I.C.; Vanasse, R.I.C. 10.4.
180—low hurdles—Squier, R.I.C.; Dow, F.; Wheeler, R.I.C.; Rayan, F. 22.5.
880—LeClair, F.; Browning, R.I.C.; Nordstrom, F.; Mancuso, R.I.C. 2:10.8.
220—O'Connor, B.; Vanasse, R.I.C.; Messina, F.; Bouchard, F. 24.4.
Two-mile—Berthoume, F.; Wheeler, R.I.C.; Browning, R.I.C.; Weddleton, B. 11:25.1.
880 relay—R.I.C. (Vanasse, Boyal, Squier, Mancuso); Fitchburg, 1:38.1.

2nd Victory

Rhode Island College's track team scored its second consecutive victory of the 1964 season last Thursday by defeating Bridgewater State and Duffee Tech in a triangular meet held at Bridgewater. The winners' point total was 67, Bridgewater's 47, and Duffee's 25.

The Anchormen captured eight first places and scored in every event as they posted their second victory in a row.

Captain Wayne Browning had a big day for R.I.C., winning three events. He took first place in the mile and two mile runs and tied for first in the 880 with team-mate Mancuso. Mancuso, besides capturing a first in the 880, won top honors in the 440 yard run and took a second in the two mile run. Browning and Mancuso combined efforts to score a total of 26 points for Rhode Island College.

Other winners for R.I.C. were Walter Haman in the shot put, Arthur Schultz in the discus, Bob Hamel in the javelin, and the 880 relay team of Don Vanasse, Howard Boyal, Ted Squier and Rick Mancuso. Hayman is currently undefeated in the shot put event.

Wayne Browning, captain of Rhode Island College's track team, won three events in a triangular meet against Bridgewater and Duffee.

Ted Squier hands the baton to Rick Mancuso as R.I.C.'s 880 yard relay team captures a first place in the meet at Bridgewater.

Tennis Squad Retains 3-1 Record In Conference Play

Rhode Island College's tennis team scored three consecutive victories in matches held last week in the New England State College Athletic Conference.

The Anchormen defeated Gorham State College of Maine, 7-2, last Tuesday in a match at R.I.C. Captain Bob Moon, Clay Barnes, Mike Ranalli, Bill Dalto and Bob Matucci each scored victories in the singles matches for Rhode Island College. In the doubles matches, Barnes combined with Dalton and Moon joined Ranalli to capture wins for R.I.C.

The Anchormen made it two in a row last Thursday by defeating New Bedford College, 5-4, in a match at R.I.C. New Bedford had won over Rhode Island College earlier in the season. The Anchormen dropped the first three singles matches to New Bedford, but bounced back to capture the next three and tie the score. Bill Dalton, Mike Ranalli and Bob Matucci each won in the singles competition. Clay Barnes and Bill Dalton put the Anchormen ahead by winning in the doubles matches; Bob Trager and Bob Matucci joined forces in the doubles competition to clinch the victory for Rhode Island College.

Rhode Island College gained its third consecutive victory in tennis competition last Saturday by defeating Bridgewater State College, 6-3, in a match at the winner's home court.

Bill Dalton, Bob Matucci and Mike Ranalli each captured a victory in the singles matches. The Anchormen won all the matches in the doubles competition. Clay Barnes joined Bill Dalton; Bob Moon combined with Bob Matucci, and Mike Ranalli joined Bob Trager to sweep the victory for R.I.C.

The Anchormen retain a 3-1 record in conference play and a 4-1 record for the season. Rhode Island College will play at Gorham State College on Saturday, May 9 and at Keene State College in New Hampshire on Sunday, May 10.
